Optional/General comments

Dear Sir,

The article titled “Effects of various micronutrient levels on the biochemical and organoleptic attributes of guava cv. 27” Needs Serious Major revision.

Authors are invited to consider these comments for improvement:

1. The quality of the paper and the route of presenting data is poor.
2. The title could mislead readers, it leads to many parameters to follow, unfortunately, not available in the manuscript. The authors should address the detailed data regarding the micronutrient levels of the biochemical and organoleptic attributes of guava.
   - If not studied properly, change the title, please.
3. There are many grammar and printing mistakes that need corrections in the manuscript.
4. The abstract need rewriting.
5. Introduction needs:
6. Materials and Methods section needs the following corrections:
   a) The title should be Materials and Methods, not the opposite.
   b) No need to add the manuscript title in all sections.
   c) The presentation of methods is confusing for the readers.
   d) The methods should be divided into subsections; selection and preparation, treatment, acidity, etc... to explain the biochemical and organoleptic attributes of guava.
   e) The statistical analysis should be explained in detail.
   f) The method of randomization is not clear and should be addressed.
   g) Add the missing details of all studied parameters, please.

7. Results and discussion:
   a) Needs rewriting, explain the results of this study, and compare it to the recent studies (agree or disagree).
   b) Compare the results of the studied parameters with other recent studies.
   c) Figure 1 legend should be under the figure.

8. Conclusion:
   a) In this section, the authors mentioned “it is concluded that foliar spray of Borax and Zinc sulphate had significantly and non-significantly improved the bio-chemical analysis of fruits and organoleptic parameters of the guava plant viz. taste.
      The above sentence is so confusing.
   b) The conclusion needs rewriting.

9. The references need correction and add recent studies, please.
