The manuscript offers valuable insights into enhancing the growth and yield of pigeonpea, a crucial rainfed pulse crop in Karnataka, through foliar nutrition interventions. The findings highlight significant improvements in growth parameters and yield attributes, particularly with the application of RDF combined with foliar application of 1% pulse magic during flowering and pod formation stages. This research contributes to addressing challenges associated with climate variability-induced fluctuations in pigeonpea yield, thereby offering practical strategies for optimizing crop productivity in rainfed agricultural systems  2. Yes 3. Yes 4. NO 5. Yes, but in Conclusion section require more explanation 6. Not Required	Noted
