

Editor's Comment:

I consider a very interesting paper, detecting trends in the decision of higher education in the population of the last 2 years of Elementary School.

Excellent description of the literature consulted, as well as the operational definitions of the sociological variables analyzed.

The contributions of the reviewers have been very accurate, but I believe they have not been fully completed by the authors.

The presentation of the research findings is not easy to read, and the tables are confusing in their interpretation; At the same time, it adds data regarding religious beliefs that are not previously posed as a research question, leaving it as disordered data that does not contribute to the substantive investigation.

Conclusion: I consider this manuscript not acceptable for publication. I also consider that the results items can be rewritten since the topic is of interest.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Luis Alberto Camputaro
Rector, Specialized Institute "Hospital El Salvador" El Salvador, Central America.