The manuscript is much important based on their described methodology as prescribed by the professionals. But the Title of the referenced manuscript is quite huge, Tissue culture title should be classified in to many sub title, which will give a clear sense.2. In case of sub title may suitable and will give a clear sense.3. No, it should be improve, especially the last part of abstract, where described the result section.4. The abstract need to be improve, there is no result and discussion, which is the important part of the manuscript and article.5. Need to serious major revision.6. The references are not arranged in APA style at the end, and also not in A-----→ Z sequence. Should be in APA style and A-----→ Z format.7. The Author did not put the result and discussion, need to put both of these section to be improve and suitable for publication. Although he has described the advantages and disadvantages of the tissue culture in the manuscript, but disadvantages are much more than advantages. Then why need to publish the article. The advantages should be more than disadvantages for the references crops in the agriculture disciplines especially in those countries which have advance technologies and scientific records.
