Hence, the significance of the study. However, the manuscript needs some fundamental corrections.➤ The author(s) could consider this title: Challenges of Primary Education System in Rural India: A Case Study on Chikana Village of Tonk District in Rajasthan, India➤ In the abstract, "40 people" should be written as "40 participants" and more specific information should be provided about the participants.➤ The abstract needs to be coherently presented ending up with the major findings of the study and recommendation/conclusion.➤ More keywords such as primary educationsystem, and educational challenges could be added.➤ Previous studies on the challenges of the primary education system in India should be mentioned.➤ The content under the literature review section does not depict a review of the literature. I suggest the section be titled "Indian primary educational policies".➤ There should be a literature review on the standard of a primary education system.➤ Methodologically, random sampling is not appropriate for research.➤ The demography and number of each group that comprised 40 participants were not provided.➤ There should be consistency between the research method and analysis of the result.➤ All the components of research methodology (paradigm, approach, design, sample, data collection, and analysis) should be clearly articulated.➤ The sources of secondary data were not indicated.➤ No consistent data collection method across the participant groups.➤ Check: "Of the respondents in this category, 62.5% were women and the rest 37.5% were women."➤ The manuscript is scientifically correct but needs to be scaled up.➤ The author(s) did not provide any in-text reference.➤ The journal manuscript template was not adhered to.
Minor REVISION comments 1. Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?	There is a need for language editing.
