Yes. The manuscript seems to be important for scientific community 2. I would suggest a title with specificity: Alternative title: Influence of Parental Educational Levels on children's Hard Skills Development: A Two-Way MANOVA Analys 3. The abstract seems to be comprehensive, but I would suggest that the part of study design and place and duration of the study to be under methodology part 4. See the above comment for the structure. And problem statement to be under introduction section 5. Yes, however, I would suggest the use of numerical findings in result section in abstract (percentage, ratio, rate...) as catchy summary of the research 6. I would suggest the use of references and citations in Introduction part . Use same referencing style in both text and reference list (not mixing Vancouver and APA referencing style)	Ok
