Thanks , this is my reply for you reference

1) This study in Bangladesh, a very good study, is of great value. It is of great significance for the future development of newborns and the intervention of coronary heart, coronary artery and cardiovascular risk factors.

2) The statistical method is correct, the research method is scientific and reasonable, the design is securities,

3) but the references, a total of 34 articles, lack of new information

The author can supplement 2 to 3 latest references, which can be published after modification

4) Accepted After Minor Revision.
