

Editor's Comment:

We think that the present manuscript belongs to the aims and scope of the journal. The topic of this paper is interesting. I would like to congratulate the authors for the work presented. We are pleased to inform you that the manuscript can be accepted for publication. It will require a second round of review, however. I have some suggestions that should be addressed in order to enhance the quality of the paper.

- Be careful to English spelling and conjugation. Overall, the manuscript is poorly written. Major issues were found in syntax, grammar, and structure (layout). English language should be revising by native speaker.
