

Editor's Comment:

Vancouver system of references is 1,2,3,4, etc.

The authors began in 10

Plasmodium falciparum is a scientific name and it should be in italics

The authors should define all abbreviations when they appear first time in the text, for example Red Blood Cells (RBC)

Only 3/13 references have less than 10 years old.

There are a lot of articles on anemia in Malaria

Editor's Details:

Dr. Nicolas Padilla-Raygoza

School of medicine, university of Celaya, Mexico