PART 1: Review Comments

	Reviewer's comment	Author's comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Compulsory REVISION comments	The Section 1 (INTRODUCTION) needs a little revision. Some information or/and points are missing or unclear, and should be better included or written (e.g., objectives of the study or/and hypotheses or/and research questions, etc). To help you, here is a list of items that it can be included in this section: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>-What is the importance of making this research/contribution that it brings to the literature in the field?</li><li>-Why should readers be interested?</li><li>-What problem/ gap resolve/fill this research?</li><li>-To fill this gap (resolve this problem) what solution/intervention/benefits does this research bring? (in other words, how the proposed study will remedy this deficiency/gap/problem and provide a unique contribution to the literature).</li></ul>	Thank you for the observation and suggestions. This issue, however, was addressed in the second paragraph of the introduction section. There was a mistake in writing the highlighted sentence. The underlined terms were previously written as DEVELOPED WORLD instead of DEVELOPING COUNTRIES, which was an oversight. With the corrections, question about the gap that this study addresses is clear. <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Checking the extent to which teachers in developing countries could integrate teaching aids into their didactic aspects.</li></ol> NB: Knowing these and connecting them to key pedagogical aspects brings about a new useful thread of pedagogical awareness that educational stakeholders in the developing countries can use to enhance teacher education and more generally professional development. <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>2. Extending the literature about the use of teaching aids in classrooms but using insights from developing countries</li></ol>

RE: Grammatical/spelling errors Thank you for the observation. I have done a spelling and grammar check to correct all remaining issues. Kindly take note that I used UK English in the manuscript. Thus, if this document is read on a computer set to use US English, some words must be indicated to have spelling mistakes. This is the case, for example, when one person writes UTILISATION while another person writes UTILIZATION.</li><li>2. Thank you for the references you have suggested. I have used the second reference to enrich my study.</li></ol>
