Compulsory REVISION comments	In the part Introduction, in the seventh sentence, viewed backwards, the term medical is superfluous, because it is contained in the very word telemedical. Change that. Also, as far as the questionnaire is concerned, the validation of the questionnaire was not performed, or the authors do not mention it in the paper. Only the population was included in the study, but not the health workers, so the claim about the refusal of the health workers to provide them with help is based on the self-reporting of the population, which is part of the study's limitation. I am of the opinion that the conclusion should be changed. Faith and trust in the work of health workers have been shaken due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The results of the study show that it is necessary for policy makers to take measures to improve the availability of health care for the entire population, as well as to restore trust in the work of health workers. I will ask the authors to once again review the citations and make corrections, as well as the doi number for all the papers they have.	Corrected  Revised
Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments	The paper deserves to be published with the mentioned corrections.
