Compulsory REVISION comments	The present study establishes a relationship between anxiety levels before and pain perception after performing the hysterosalpingography exam. The study was well designed, the methodology was well planned and executed. The authors performed a good description of the occurrence of infertility, characteristics of the sample used, among other aspects. However, when the reader gets to the discussion topic, it is a little disappoint, since the authors were extremely concise. Therefore, I would suggest that the authors broaden the discussion, as there are several findings that could be addressed. In general, the study is of good quality and the text is well written, only the discussion was very summarized.	Thank you very much for reviewing our paper. It has added colour to our discussion section. The discussion section has been broadened as suggested, and the additional content highlighted in yellow.
Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments
