Compulsory REVISION comments	Abstract: The study is novel and contains new work and body of knowledge The word "grasshoff" is incorrect it should be written as Grashof, authors should correct at all places in the manuscript. The results indicated are not very new as you will see that in other studies not very similar, such results have been obtained. Introduction There is need for language review in the introduction. Equation governing the fluid flow This section starts with the wording as follows: "Buongiorno used Brownian diffusion…." Is this a reference to some work? If so its not properly referenced. Also it seems the mathematical formulation in this section belongs to this reference. This section needs to be improved. Equation numbering should be improved, the numbers should appear in the same line The graphical representation has been clearly illustrated and the references are clearly displayed in the same format
