PART 1: Review Comments

	Reviewer’s comment	Author’s comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Compulsory REVISION comments	Heparin necrosis is a phenomenon known since more than 60 years, not only since Perrinaud 2006. However, a clinical picture similar to bullous pemphigoid is indeed very rare.
Minor REVISION comments	Please choose either British or American spelling: Haemorrhagic is British, hemorrhagic is American
Optional/General comments	This is an interesting report on a bullous hemorrhagic heparin reaction. It is well written and accompanied by good clinical photographs. I took the liberty of correcting a few linguistic and orthographic errors.

PART 2:

	Reviewer’s comment	Author’s comment (if agreed with reviewer, correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Are there ethical issues in this manuscript?	(If yes, Kindly please write down the ethical issues here in details)
